

WASHINGTON DEAN ENGINEER'S SURVEY

Attempt to Discover Typical
Student and Find
Habits

WHAT IS COLLEGIATE?

The University of Omaha is one of the four hundred colleges throughout the United States that has been invited to participate in a nationwide survey of educational institutions, undertaken to ascertain the real status of the so-called "collegiate" in American life.

Henry Grattan Doyle, Dean of Men of George Washington University, Washington, D. C., has addressed a questionnaire to the deans of various universities asking a number of significant questions pertaining to the "collegiate." He has asked whether the "collegiate" is the typical of the student body.

Dean Doyle believes that when information covering the questions that he has sent out, is received he will have a survey of wide informative value, which may be presented to the annual convention of the Association of Deans and Advisors, April 11, 12, and 13.

In the letter accompanying the questionnaire, Dean Doyle states, "I am sure that in common with me, you have felt concern over the mental picture of the 'collegiate' boy or girl which the general public has apparently created during recent years. I feel that this imaginary individual is by no means typical. For the purpose of contributing something toward the correction of what I believe to be erroneous public opinion and the creation of correct opinion founded on facts, I am sending this letter to deans in a number of the leading colleges and universities throughout the country in order to get a consensus of fact and opinion which can be presented to the public."

Some of the questions that are asked are, in brief, "Is the 'collegiate' student typical of your student body?" "Is a slouchy appearance typical of your student body?" "Is there any connection, in your opinion, between the attempt to be 'collegiate' and such problems as drinking, necking, neglect of class work, dishonesty in examinations, and other ethical problems?" "Does the 'collegiate' student excel in school activities?" "Is the 'collegiate' type of student increasing or diminishing?" "Do you agree that in general, our student bodies are composed of young people whose standards compare favorably with those of preceding generations?"

Business Men Talk Backing University of Omaha Athletics

Athletic affairs at the University of Omaha are on a decided upward swing, according to A. J. Dunlap. The Progressive Club whose membership consists of one hundred twenty-five business men of Omaha, is seriously considering accepting the athletics of the university as their social and community job for the year. This would give to the athletics a sponsor for all activities.

Should the plan be carried out, these men would be interested and helpful in next year's football ticket drive, would assist the athletics in obtaining work, if needed, and would do their part in forming parades for next year's games.

"I already have in line for next year's team six men whose weight ranges from 165 to 185 pounds," stated Mr. Dunlap, "and a wealth of lighter material is waiting to be added to the football program for next fall."

Gala Day Election to Be Held on March 1

The Student Council has appointed Friday, March 1, as the day for the Gala Day Election, and at this time the Chairman of the Central Committee, and a representative of each class will be elected. The candidates for these offices should have their petition in Dean James' office by Wednesday, at ten o'clock.

At the same time the Gala Day Queen and her attendants should also be elected. This is confined to the senior girls. But each class elects its own attendant to the queen. Turn out for the election. The object in having it early in the year is so the pictures may be secured for the Omatan.

Department of Music Has Service Bureau

Presents Musical Program

The department of Music, now that it has sufficient number of student artists who are prepared to appear before the public, has established a Service Bureau. This Bureau is for the purpose of offering musical programs to those organizations in and out of the city who desire an entertainment. Professor Noel J. Logan, head of the Department of Music, states that the demands for these programs is so great that the Bureau can not comply with them.

The following dates have been arranged for the next two weeks: for February 28, Professor Logan and Schianta are engaged to appear at the Walnut Hill Methodist Church, where Professor Schianta will present a group of violin selections and Professor Logan will give a talk on the opportunities offered in the University Department of Music; on Friday, March 1, Professor Schianta will offer a group of violin numbers at the Pearl Memorial Church; on Tuesday, March 5, Professor Schianta will again appear, this time before the State Sunday School Association at the Immanuel Baptist Church on the following Thursday, Professor Logan is to appear at the Omaha Women's Club, where he will give a group of songs and again speak on the opportunities proffered in the University of Omaha Music Department; and on Thursday, March 14, Professors Logan and Schianta are presenting a program at the Henry Yates school at the meeting of the P. T. A.

The Service Bureau, during the past week, has presented the following: On February 22, the Conservatory of Music presented a program at Garfield Circle of the G. A. R.; on Saturday, February 23, the music for the Masonic Banquet; on the following Tuesday, the Music Department was presented at the North Presbyterian Church Society; and on Sunday, February 24, Mrs. Elsie Lukovsky presented a program at the Art Institute.

Dunlap Gives Many Speeches in State

A. J. Dunlap, popular dean of the College of Commerce, will fill his seventeenth speaking engagement Feb. 28. His speeches have been given before various groups, and he says, "I have tried to boost the University of Omaha each time."

His engagements during the month of January included talks before the congregation of the Miller Park Presbyterian Church, January 6; the P. T. A. of Fort Calhoun, January 7; and the P. T. A. of Fort Calhoun. Other speeches were given at the Commercial Club, January 10; the P. T. A. of Irvington, Nebraska, P. T. A. of Lothrop School, the Co-operative Club January 13, and the banquet of the Florence Improvement Club on the twenty-fourth of January.

So far this month, he has addressed the Lions Club and Junior Chamber of Commerce of Herman, Nebraska, the annual dinner of the Etna Insurance Company, the Ladies Legislative League of the governor's mansion, the Masonic and Eastern Star banquet held at Walnut, Iowa, the Christian Endeavor Union of Omaha, and the noon luncheon of the Omaha Engineer's Club.

Tonight he will speak to the Rotary Club of Greenfield, O., his home town. Tomorrow he will attend the reception that is to be given in his honor by the people of Greenfield.

At each address Mr. Dunlap spoke to approximately two hundred people, which makes over three thousand people reached by a representative of the University of Omaha.

Five of Faculty are Absent on Journeys

N. E. A. Convention Takes President and Deans to Cleveland

The university has been minus five of its faculty members for the last few days. Dean A. J. Dunlap, of the College of Commerce, left Feb. 3 for Northwestern University where he inspected the athletic field and plans of the athletics in general. He also visited the University of Chicago before continuing his trip to Cleveland where the N. E. A. convention is being held. Before returning home, he will visit the University of Cincinnati, a municipal university, where the athletics and the industrial laboratory will be his chief interest.

Friday morning, February 23, Dr. Emery, Mrs. Stevens, Mr. Hammer, and Dean James left to attend the N. E. A. convention. Instead of returning immediately home after the convention, the others will do Dr. Emery will visit the University of Cincinnati. He will not return until March 6.

Formal Reception Is Considered Success

The formal Reception was a success, so many reply to the frequent query about the annual mid-winter affair, last Thursday night, given by the Y. W. and Y. M. C. A., entertaining the students, faculty, administration, and members of the board of trustees of the University of Omaha.

The gym was decorated with festoons of yellow, green and white paper ribbon, and hangers and chandeliers added a festive atmosphere to the day. The new coat of tan and apple-green further carried out the effect, and palms and yellow and white tulips about the room gracing the tables and piano, brought the finishing touch.

The orchestra, led by Evelyn McDonald, entertained while the crowd was gathering. Oliver Hasselblad, as master of ceremonies, introduced Professor Bogdan Schianta, who played two violin solos accompanied by Katherine Clow. Barbara Dallas gave a solo tap-dance, and then Agnes Blakley, Madeline Shipman and Barbara Dallas presented an ensemble tap dance accompanied by Marjorie Lyle. Katherine Clow offered a piano solo, and Marie Scott sang a vocal solo, accompanied by Dorothy Mangor.

After the musical numbers, the impersonators of the faculty filed in to a farce chapel, garbed in hats and coats belonging to the various professors. Lorraine Shoenfelt officiated at the assembly as President Emery. He urged the students to come forward, as it was a little cold in the gym, and said that it was his ambition to have the university a big family. Merle Mennie, impersonator of Dr. Logan became warm under the collar while directing the faculty in singing "Sweet Adeline." Then Starly Schlick as Dr. Vartanian, led in responsive reading of "Mary Had a Little Lamb." Dean James, impersonated by Guy Mesbaum, gave the announcements in his deliberate fashion, and then called for faculty announcements. He received a hearty response from Mr. Logan, Miss Knight (Stella Adamson), and Professor Kuhn, who came in late and made a few remarks about the Tour of Europe. Miss Gould, impersonated by Leah Daubeny, invited the boys to enter her classes, and Professor Guilford (Edwin Hogle), and Professor McKibben (Norman Shoenmaker) also had something to say. Mr. Hammer (Morwood Weener) took charge of the pop part of the assembly, and introduced Ben Prother, who took part of Frank Hubbs and Harold Ginn, who was Dr. Dunlap. After assembly was dismissed, Miss Gould and Prof. Kuhn (Continued on Page 2)

Plans Enlarged for Arabian Nights Ball

Advertising Arranged

The plans for the Arabian Night's Ball to be given by the Paint Pot on April 5, are progressing very rapidly. Several orchestras have been consulted. Advertising will probably be done by means of automobile stickers and posters. At the meeting to be held tonight the plans will be enlarged upon and definite arrangements made for the decorations. The matter of costumes or no is being debated.

Chemist Lectures To Chemistry Club

PRACTICAL CHEMISTRY DISCUSSED

Mr. W. H. Campen, of the Omaha Testing Laboratories, gave a practical lecture on "What a Commercial Chemist Has to Test," before the members of the Chemistry Club last Thursday at ten o'clock in Science Hall.

Mr. Campen emphasized the fact that in order to analyze a substance, a chemist must have a good sense of sight and smell. The Commercial Chemist analyzes dairy products such as milk for total solids, butter for butter fat, ice-cream for fats which keep it from melting, and cheese for protein, fats and water. He also analyzes wheat for gluten and protein to determine whether it is best for making flour, macaroni, cake, or bread. Cereals also come under this classification.

A miscellaneous group contains water which is analyzed for mineral content, vinegar, soap, edible oils and fats, and beverages to determine poisons put in by the government and poisons resulting from home preparation.

Under fuels there are gases, fuel oils, and coal, for heat units, ash and sulphur. Petroleum products such as gasoline, kerosene, lubricating oils, waxes, greases, and crude oils are analyzed for fuel value, flash point, etc. Another class for analysis includes paints, fertilizers, alloys, ores, and paving and building materials.

This interesting lecture showed the wide field covered in Chemistry and how it can be applied to practical materials of everyday life.

NEWS OF THE TOUR

Mr. Albert Lindblad is busily engaged in finding prospects for the tour.

A large number of new inquiries have reached the desk of the manager. Professor Kuhn spoke Saturday evening over W. O. W. He gave a straight sales talk on the tour, describing the wonderful itineraries, and pointing out the numerous advantages of this tour over others. To judge from the response which has been called forth by his former radio talk on the tour, this address should net him a good many new applications.

Professor Kuhn expresses his gratitude to those students who submitted to him names of possible patrons, and urges the students in the common interest of the University to assist him further in this matter.

He wishes also to thank Robert Streitzweiser, who impersonated him at the formal reception, for advertising the tour in his address to the audience in such a quiet and original fashion.

Be sure and convert YOUR name on the student and faculty directory list. Look on the bulletin board.

DEBATE SQUAD OPENS UP IN COMING WEEK

Negative Team to Meet Coter Here Thurs.—Affirmative Team to Tour

RECORD IS 2 OUT OF 4

With a record of two victories, one loss, and one no-decision contest behind them, the Debate Squad of the University of Omaha will open an intensive period of debates in the next few days. Due to the quarantine at Coter College, the debates planned for last week had to be postponed, and added to this week's schedule.

The negative team will carry on activities at home, meeting Coter College on Thursday, and Kearney on Saturday. The probable lineup of this team is the same as before.

The affirmative team leaves tomorrow on a tour of three days, during which they will meet Coter College tomorrow night, Gand Island on Friday, and Kearney Saturday night. The members of the squad who will make up this trip are Walter Schroeder, first speaker; Frank Heinlich, second speaker; and Edwin Hogle, third speaker and captain of the team.

No Decision in Dakota Contest
The contest with the University of South Dakota, held Feb. 8, although a no-decision debate, resulted in a favorable attitude for the speakers upholding the case for Omaha University. The affirmative team, Walter Schroeder, Frank Heinlich and Edwin Hogle, met the South Dakota negative team, Terry Kirkpatrick, Otto Gruhn, and Walter Howell. Mr. McBurney, coach of the visiting team, stated at the edge of the debate that the University of Omaha had both a good team and a good case but since they were not prepared to debate the same wording of the question there was no real clash of issues.

Last year the University of Omaha team, which also was coached by Mr. Guilfoill, won twelve consecutive victories. This record secured for them the championships of both the Nebraska State Conference and the Nebraska-Missouri League.

The team of last year suffered no defeat except from the world touring University of Oregon debaters. At that time the audience, which by vote decided the winner was asked by Mr. Guilfoill to vote for the Oregon team.

Questionnaires Series by Mr. Hammer's Sociology Dept.

MAKE STUDY OF UNI.

Students in the Social Psychology, Social Research and Educational Statistics classes, under the direction of Mr. Hammer, are starting some new work. This week they are putting out the first of a series of questionnaires which are to be filled out by the student body. Other sets of questions will be given out later. When the complete list of questionnaires has been submitted, the classes expect to have good cross-section of student life as it actually is found on the campus.

Mr. Hammer requests the earnest and sincere co-operation of the entire student body in answering the list of questions. It is not an attempt to study the individual or his views or opinions but it is to make a study of the University as a whole.

CHEMISTRY CLUB

Dr. Crozier, City Chemist, will speak in the Chemistry Club on March 1, relating his career and experiences in connection with the work.

THE DEBATE TEAM

The students on the campus do not know the members of this year's debate squad, and consequently cannot appreciate their work. The squad this year has a great deal of good material. Some of the contenders have had a great deal of experience, while others have never debated before. The most experienced man on the squad is Edwin W. Hogle, who is Captain of the affirmative team. This is his third year on the University of Omaha team. During his debating career he has participated in debates on three champion teams; Technical High school, Cotner College, and last year's Omaha U. team. So far this year he has been the outstanding speaker in all of the debates.

The Captain of the negative team is also a veteran Omaha University debater. Helena Gebuhr, who is serving her second year on the squad, is a second year Law student. Before coming to the Omaha U. she had experience in the A. L. ranks. Miss Gebuhr's style of speaking is very pleasing and effective. She is the outstanding speaker for her team.

Don Butler, well known on the campus, stands with Edwin Hogle in the number of years that he has served the U. of O. However, he has taken part in fewer actual combats. He had some limited experience in High School debating before entering the University of Omaha. Din takes his debating just as he does everything else, seriously.

June Pickard is one of the contenders for a position on the team who has had no College experience. For two years she served as Captain of the South High team.

One of the new members who has made a remarkable showing so far this season is Bruce Baker. This is his first year at the College of Law. Bruce is a T. J. man and a debater from that school. He has participated in all of the debates held this year. His berth on the second team seems quite secure.

Allan Cohen is another first year man who promises to bring forensic victory to the University of Omaha. His work is characterized by a vivacity seldom found in relatively inexperienced speakers. While at Technical High school he represented a debate club in inter-club debates. Since the beginning of the year Allan has taken part in the debates and shows up well as first speaker in the negative team.

R. B. Zalkin who came from Central High School is a first year man who has shown up well as a first negative speaker. He has been an excellent worker and has done a great deal toward building up the case of the negative.

The Law School has furnished still another member for the squad in the person of Walter Schroeder. With no previous experience, he has made a remarkable record as first affirmative speaker.

Frank Holmish is a third-year Law student who without any previous debate experience has shown up well as second affirmative speaker. However, he has had a great deal of practical public speaking, which stands him in good stead by giving him a noticeable ease on the platform.

John Peterson is another first year law student who has volunteered his services from Technical High School to the University of Omaha. He has shown up well in practice and will no doubt give some hard service before the season ends.

It is said that one who walks in when the rest of the world walks out is a man who walks in when the rest of the world walks out.

Who's Who

MISS FRANCES K. GOULD

The pursuit of education has led Miss Frances Gould, instructor in English and American Literature, into foreign lands and ports. After finishing the work at the University of Michigan, she attended the university in Edinburgh, Scotland. Later she attended lectures in both Oxford and Paris.

Before accepting a position on the faculty of the University of Omaha, she held a similar position in Morris College, Illinois.

Miss Gould's hobby, as her students all know well, is the reading and re-reading of great literary masterpieces. Among these her favorites are, of course, the works of Shakespeare.

In her opinion, the University of Omaha is rapidly moving toward better things. "I feel that under the leadership of our new president, the students are responding better than ever to the need for work in the activities of the school. The University of Omaha is on the road to better things."

Mac's Mutterings

AFTER SHAKING hands down the receiving line of the Formal Reception, we felt that Cal Coolidge had nothing on us.

REAL MARTYRS were those persons who so excellently impersonated the members of the faculty that night. We wonder what their final grades will be.

THE RASCAL who impersonated Dr. Vartanian didn't have quite enough burnt cork smeared on his face, in our opinion.

AND THE rowdy that took the part of McKibbin, forgot to tell us about his breakfast of fried eggs and coffee. Otherwise, the characterization of our Scotch friend would have been perfect.

WE GOT quite a laugh out of watching Miss Gould when Leah Danbenhayer asked that the window be raised. Miss Gould does love fresh air.

THE GERMAN Prof. was a bit worried when he failed to see himself among the impersonators at first, but he waxed joyful when his puppet entered the assembly about ten minutes late.

WITH THE aid of a pillow and three towels, Mennie got away with leading songs in the place of Dean Logan.

WE ASKED a freshman what time it was, the other day, and he absent-mindedly piped up and said that he didn't know because he was a stranger here, too.

AND YET they say that the freshmen are not as dumb as they are painted.

WE ARE in receipt of the following letter from Sawdust Simpson of Clay Middle, Nebraska: My dear sir: You will recall that I recently wrote you for some of them new rubber tires for my bicycle. Well, I would like for you to answer me the following inquiries: how do you tie the ends together; how should I blow air in them; how can I nuke them on; and lastly would you please tel me the advantage. Yours truly, Mr. Simpson.

NUH-LAH, THE beautiful blonde, entered the room and gasped. Drawers were pulled out and clothing was thrown about the room. Mud was on the floor and cigarette stubs and ashes were profusely scattered over the rug. The bed covers were half on the floor and a pillow was half way through a broken window. An overturned table was resting on a broken typewriter. "Great sheet-ten," she murmured. "My brother is home from college."

Max No Difference

A recent traveler in Algeria returns to report having found the banks of the famous "River of Ink" lined with Highlanders filling their fountain pens.

There's the one about the Scotchman who died and left a million dollars to the mother of the unknown soldier.

Kubak, the dumb pledge, will never understand. The other day when the telephone rang, an active yelled, "Get that phone!" He jumped to his feet and hurried into the other room to return two minutes later dragging the whole phone behind him.

An egotist is a fellow who goes around the campus telling people that he is losing his mind.

By the way, have you heard the one about the Scotchman who built an apartment house and left the fire escapes off because it was leap year?

R-R-Revenge

Among the noted visitors on the university campus last week was William Penn Shakespeare (himself). It was very unusual for such a thing to happen because we thought that he was dead and in his grave many moons ago but being that seeing is believing, old Shakespeare, or his image, was here last week. When questioned regarding his opinions on great world matters, he declared that he had no interest for common things of today. He said that this age is terribly behind the times. His great sorrow was that he was forced to go to Canada to get his annual drink o' Vodka, which is the Latin for Gin. On other matters he was more eloquent.

"Prohibition is a great thing—to think about," stated Shakespeare. "The very fact that it is being imposed upon the people who thought it up is sad, indeed very sad. If, for instance, we should take the people of China or some other place where we never expect to go, and tell them that they should have prohibition, it would be a great thing. Ha, how I crave a drink of my favorite vinage. But," here the old boy emitted a generous sigh, "I have a bigger mission here at this time."

"My purpose," he continued, "in visiting this campus is to see just what conditions are coming to. I have heard that tyrannical profs. and instructors are forcing their students to believe things that I have said, so that they soon become to despise my very name. Now, I advocate—"

But at this moment, Shakespeare spied a certain prof coming toward him and he whispered to us: "Don't tell him who I am and get ready for a laugh."

(Out of respect for the faculty The Gateway has cut out the name and you will have to use your imagination from this point on).

To the first member of the faculty who came up, our friend Shakespeare, incognito, said:

"What ho, quoth the raven and why not? Many a man has lost his teeth, and then, said dangerous Dan McGrew, while he followed her behind."

This member of the faculty, Mr. X, pricked up his ears and declared, "Why isn't that what Shakespeare used to say? But I do believe you have it wrong, my man. It goes like this: 'Quoth the raven never-more, what ho. Dangerous Dan McGrew lost his teeth and followed behind her. You see, now you have it. That's a big point. You mustn't forget it.'"

And then, dear reader, just as Shakespeare himself was going to tell Mr. X all about himself and why, we fell out of bed and woke up, thereby losing our revenge.

The English Lit. class went on the next day as usual.

When was once a bell-hop in a down town hotel. The story goes that one night he went to the door of a room and the following conversation took place:

When: "Telegram, sir."

When: "Well, shove it under the door."

When: "I can't, sir. It's on a tray."

"THE CUBS' CORNER"

This literary corner is especially intended for the publication of amateur poetry and short prose selections written exclusively by the students of the University of Omaha. The encouragement of talent along literary lines is its earnest aim. Any contributions from students will be welcomed.

SO HERE'S TO THE HASH HOUSE QUEEN

A fellow there was
A lively boy
Who cut the girls
With soulful joy.
He winked his eye
He made a date
He reckoned not
His lowly fate.
The Hash-House queen
Repowdered her nose
She washed her neck
She cleaned her hose.
The date was o'er
She quoted Faust

The lad gave up
And all was lost.
And now the lad
Who stopped the girls
Has covered his head
With lovely curls.
He worships the queen
His adorable one
He writes her stories
Of the setting sun
So here's to the queen
She knows her stuff
She cultures men
Right from the rough.

—Heh heh.

"GIVING"

If we cannot give,
Why do we live?
Where is the joy of enduring
The world's weary pleasures
With o'er running measures,
Surfeiting longing, not curing?
Was happiness won
In selfishness begun?
Was ever soul uplifted
On another's woe?
Comes ever joy or sorrow
Without its opposite tomorrow?
Comes ever peace, perfection, love,
But built on sacrifice below?

Lee.

FABLE

Once upon a time there was a lion. The lion was very proud and haughty, and was continually bragging about his superior strength. He had given himself the title of King of the Jungle and expected all the other animals to recognize his superiority and bow down before him. In this he had no difficulty, for every animal respected his wishes and worshipped him. The truth of the matter was that they were afraid to do anything else. One mighty roar from his throat would cause the earth to tremble and all the other animals to flee to safety. But although the great beast was King in the animal kingdom, man did not respect his rights. A trap was set for him one day as he was walking proudly along, his head held high and roaring loudly, he wauked into the trap. This ended his illustrious career and proved that pride always takes a fall and leads to destruction.

THE VAIN COLT

One afternoon four colts were given the run of their master's practice field. They were very happy, because they had never before been out of the rather small confines of the feeding pasture and stables.

There were many hurdles, of various heights and distances, over which the older horses were trained to jump. The colts had often watched this interesting procedure, and when they saw they were alone in the field, they immediately began to disport themselves there. One colt in particular enjoyed this immensely, and was very adept at clearing the bars and hedges.

"I will show my friends," he said, "what a fine jump I can make." So he found a high hedge which none of the others had attempted to jump over. They watched with surprise as he cleared the obstruction easily. Not to be outdone, however, they also tried it, and managed with great difficulty to follow his example.

Conscious of the attention of the others, and impressed with their attempts to follow his leadership, he continued hurdling the hedges all around the field. The three less energetic colts were soon exhausted, and discontinued their activities to watch him.

He had so outshown them that he noticed they were looking at him with new admiration. His efforts had tired him a good deal, but he still thought he could do better. So he selected a higher and harder jump than he had yet tried. But alas, he has not considered the height of the barrier, nor had he seen what lay beyond. His strength was not equal to the emergency, and he fell ignominiously into a creek that ran on the other side of the high hedge.

The other colts laughed derisively as they saw their bedraggled champion limp disconsolately away. He was a sorry and a more thoughtful colt. "Never again," he said to himself, "will I let the opinion of others make a fool out of me."

—H. L. Hudson.

BROKEN LINES

The other day
A visitor
At the university
Stopped us
In the hall
And inquired about
Finding somebody
That he knew
And told us
That he didn't Know where to Go to find out
And so we Took him into
The office and
Found out where
He could locate
His friend and then
We went to our class
Feeling much better
Than if we had
Not helped the Visitor out
Of his plight

Ideals

To live in the affections; not to dwell in pride.
To cultivate courtesy, which fosters brotherhood and is the manner of the heart.
To be gentle with those who serve, since they are not free to resent.
To avoid arrogance, which corrodes the man and estranges his fellows.
To mingle freely with all classes and thus to know mankind.
To be mastered by no habit or prejudice, no triumph or misfortune.
To promise rarely, and perform faithfully.
To choose hobbies with care, and pursue them with diligence.
To value people above thoughts, and thoughts above things.
To curb the personal wants, which expand easily but shrink with difficulty.
To be just, man's supreme virtue, which requires the best of head and heart.

—Huchanga.

The Pan-Hellenic council met on Thursday, February 21, to discuss the annual Pan-Hellenic dance. Definite plans were made for this affair, which will be given April 12 at Peony Park.

Y. W. Notes

Twenty-five girls attended the Y. W. C. A. meeting held in room 10F last Tuesday. Linda Bradway, Y. W. President, took charge of the program instead of Elma Gove, who could not be present.

The plans for the Formal Reception were presented, and the President urged all to go to the State Student Volunteer Convention to be held at York, Nebraska, the week-end including March 1, 2, 3. She announced that $2.50 of each individual's expenses, would be paid out of the Y. Convention Fund, and that other expenses would be $1.50, including meals and transportation costs.

Helen Hasselblad gave a short discussion of the following campus problems: Increasing the membership of the Y. W. C. A.; increasing the attendance at the regular Tuesday meetings; Cribbing in classes; Getting equal placement for the colored girls who are practice-teaching; and increasing the Chapel attendance.

The Y. W. C. A. has found a larger room which will accommodate all the members. The Y Room in the basement was inadequate, and room 16 has been decided upon. The officers now are: Linda Bradway, President; Vice-president, Vivian Krikel; Secretary, Gwendolen Harger; Treasurer, Cleo McGuire. The chairmen are Dorothy Manger, Social Chairman; Madeline Shipman, Chairman of the Publicity Committee; and Stella Adamson, Chairman of the Y Room Committee.

This is an organization of girls on the campus which is vitally interested in carrying out the ideals of life presented by Sherwood Eddy. It is one in which every girl will find a welcome.

FRIDAY ASSEMBLY

The Assembly Friday, Febr. 22, was sponsored by the Phi Delta Psi sorority. Dr. Frederick Clayton Rector of All Saints Episcopal Church was the speaker.

He spoke on the value of words and the incorrect way in which they are sometimes used. He brought out the fact that while our language was a great aid it was very inadequate. Dr. Clayton emphasized the importance of books and good literature to a person's education. He compared the thoughts of the great philosophers of all times to show the similarity among their ideas.

The meeting was well attended and the faculty and student body appreciated the privilege of hearing Dr. Clayton.

With the Faculty

At the former musicale and tea given by the Women's Auxiliary of the Omaha-Douglas County Medical association February 19, Boghdan Shlanta played a violin group "Hejre Kati" by Hubay, "Romance" by Wienlawskie, and Brahms' "Waltz in a Major." Mrs. Evelyn Lukovsky gave several solos, accompanied by Mrs. Karl Werndoff.

Mrs. Nell Gillard, Miss Irma Clow, N. J. Logan, Boghdan Shlanta, and Cecil Barryman attended the Nebraska State Music Teachers' Association Convention held in Lincoln last week.

Miss Pearl Schafer, secretary to Dr. E. W. Emery, will ill February 19 and 20. Miss Elma Gove and Miss Laura Barnes assumed her duties during those days.

T. Earl Sullenger, former instructor in sociology at the University of Omaha who is now attending Columbia, will return to the university this fall.

Cecil Simmons, was recently appointed to the faculty assembly committee.

Liberty chapter of the Omaha Eastern Star was entertained on Tuesday, February 19 by Boghdan Shlanta who played a violin group, and Mrs. Evelyn Lukovsky who sang. They were accompanied by Mrs. Karl Werndoff.

Mrs. Fritz Baumeister, head of the department of physical education is now offering classes in tap dancing. These classes are accredited.

Professor Kuhn's German classes are becoming quite proficient in singing German songs. They have already learned several songs, and have excellent volume as students in nearby classrooms will testify.

During the absence of Miss Platt, who has been ill for the past three weeks, the French classes have been taught by students from the advanced French classes. Irene Goosman and Norman Shoemaker have taught the 8 o'clock French II class.

The Faculty and President and Mrs. Emery will honor the graduating class of the entire University at a reception to be given in Jacobs Memorial Gymnasium, on March 6. Mrs. Leslie Johnson is Chairman of the Social Committee.

Miss Platt, of the French Department has returned to school, after having been ill since the beginning of the semester.

We understand that one of the professors who recently took a plunge in the realm of journalism is quite disgusted with The Gateway staff because their ideas and his don't jibe.

DECIDE AND DO!

The easiest thing in a world of things is to sit and wait until somebody brings

Complete instruction on what to do, And how to do it, and when, to you. It's easy then, to go straight ahead And follow the facts just as somebody said.

If they come out wrong and your work's in vain, Why, that's for somebody else to explain.

Yes, it's easy to sidestep and pass the buck,

But the fellow who does it is out of luck; Since the big success always seeks the man

Who can plan his work and work his plan.

The power of the man whom his world consults is based upon this: that he gets results.

If you'd follow his footsteps, you—yes YOU!—

Must learn to DECIDE and decide to DO. O. Henry.

Teacher—What do you know about Miracles?

Student—I used to work in a telegraph office and I knew that night rates are less than day rates.

Nebraska Student Volunteer Convention

With terrific and acute problems before them the Student Volunteers, Life Recruits, International Fellowship students, and many others interested in adjusting themselves and their spiritual fitness in present day conditions are to assemble together at York College on Friday afternoon, March 1, for a convention which is to continue until the noon of the following Sunday, March 3rd.

In the motto of the convention "The Purpose of God in the Light of the World" the Nebraska student finds that its stupendous scope must deal with these problems about which the convention will be centered. Pictures of World Needs; Changing Attitudes on Missions; Messages of Non-Christian Religions; Uniqueness of the Christian Message; Future of Missions; How can I discover God in my own life? These problems are to be dealt with a personnel of leaders which consists of:

Mr. Arthur Rugh, who for the last five years has been at the head of the American Christian Educational Movement in China. He has been connected chiefly with the educational phase of making available English Literature for the Chinese.

Pres. E. M. Emery of the University of Omaha—who has recently returned from Africa—where he was both an evangelist and medical doctor.

Dr. Vartanian, also from Omaha University. He formerly came from Armenia. He without doubt is outstanding in possessing a deep personal consecration and sympathetic human understanding, mingled with much wit and vivacity.

Mr. John Elder, the traveling secretary of the Student Volunteer Movement. He has had missionary experience in Persia and is now home on his first furlough. He also did Y. M. C. A. work in Russia and relief work in Armenia.

Miss Winifred Wygal, has had years of experience and relationships with young people. She is now acting head of National Student Council of Y. W. C. A., and has recently completed a trip around the world by which she strengthened her contact with young people of other lands.

Dr. Walter Judd, who five years ago was one of the most prominent leaders of students in the middle west. He has just returned from his surgical practice in China, and will be at the conference. He is best known to most students, perhaps, through his writing "Why Leave Non-Christian America." He is a graduate of the State University, both in the college of liberal arts and the college of medicine at Omaha.

The Weekly Inquiring Reporters

"Have you spring fever? If not, what have you?" Thus spake the two inquisitive reporters. Various persons answered thusly.

On being confronted with these momentous questions, Freddy Pierce answered, "Spring fever? No, I have no spring fever! We're out today: We're expecting 3 cases right away. Shall we save you a few bottles?"

Arthur Dunn replied with his usual dignity, "No, I don't have spring fever! I have a great weight on my mind! (Did he mean dandruff?"

Don McMahon came staggering into the hall and on being asked if he had a bad case of spring fever said, "No I can't see a thing."

Rather suspicious at being strange persons Luree Combs gurgled, "Oh your from that Gateway. (The reporters innocently assured her that they were not.) Oh no, darling! Too much winter weather!"

Lewis Leeder a new student this year even thought he was here last year, responded to these questions, "I'm getting some kind of fever but I don't know what it is."

And last but not least, Professor Logan replied in his new bass voice, "No, I have something in the neck."

Thus ended a perfect day for the weekly inquiring reporters!

PERSONALS

Burd Arganbright has been out several days last week due to the severe illness of his aunt, Mrs. A. B. Detweiler, with whom he makes his home.

Miss Velma Hansell of Tabor, Iowa, was the guest of Miss Maxine Delavan at Omaha University last Tuesday, February 19.

Miss Violet Oman, special student in the Art and Home Economics departments, is the Night Superintendent of the Evangelical Covenant Hospital. She is on duty from seven o'clock p. m. to seven o'clock a. m. Her classes are sometime in the morning and sometime in the afternoon. She says that if she only had her nursing to do she would become very tired. It is for this reason that she is taking work.

PRE-MED CLUB

Dr. Donald McRae will speak on Modern Surgery, at the meeting of the Pre-Med Club, Thursday, February 28. The meeting will start at nine, and promises to be very interesting.

The Chemistry Club of the University of Omaha was addressed by W. H. Campen, expert from the Omaha Testing Laboratories, at Science Hall, February 21. The title of his lecture was "We Test Anything Under the Sun," a discussion of the great part chemical analysis plays in the industrial laboratories of today.

Floating University Will Confer Degrees On High Seas

AMERICAN EDUCATORS ARE IN CURRICULUM

For the first time in the history of American education regular academic degrees will be conferred on the high seas according to a New York Dispatch concerning the Floating University. While the students and faculty of this co-ed travel university are steaming from Penang to Calcutta, the news is made public that a revised charter enables the Floating University to confer degrees, beginning with the college year 1929-1930.

Accordingly, this university will offer programs of study leading to the B. A., M. A., and B. W. A. degrees. The B. W. A. (Bachelor of World Affairs) is a new degree, not conferred elsewhere. It is based on the concept that a study of History, Government, Economics, and Sociology on the world wide scale, is valuable training for the student planning to enter public affairs, the diplomatic and consular services, or international business.

The M. A. degree will differ from the usual master's degree in that individual research and a thesis are required. The student compiles data during the round-the-world cruise and completes his thesis with the aid of an European or American library.

The B. A. degree can be won in the Junior and Senior years, with majors in literature or art. A few well qualified seniors can be accepted as candidates for the degree in one year, with majors in art or literature; French; history; economic or sociology; or philosophy, religion and ethics.

Floating University will also confer a certificate on all students or candidates for a degree who successfully complete the requirements for a full year's work. An official bulletin, giving these requirements as well as those for the degrees, will be mailed to colleges and universities after Feb. 25.

The revised charter was made possible, officials say, in part by the reception American educators have given its curriculum, and in part by the extremely favorable reports that have been coming back from every country the University has visited this year.

MUSIC TEACHERS ATTEND CONVENTION

Last week, from Monday to Wednesday, the Thirteenth Annual Convention of the Nebraska Music Teachers' Association convened at Lincoln. Omaha University was well represented by Professor Logan, Mrs. Nell Gillard, Miss Katherine Clow, Miss Elsie Ptak, Professor Shlanta, and Professor Seidl. Master classes in voice, piano, violin, and organ were held under the supervision of some very competent artists. Professor Logan reports that the classes were intensely interesting and very worth while.

The master-class in voice was conducted by Mr. Oscar Seagle, the piano class by Mr. Rudolph Gann. Mr. Richard Czerwinsky presided over the violin master-class and Mr. Roland Dunham directed the organ class. These are all well-known artists and are recognized as the best in this part of the country. The suggestions and advice offered by them were of the utmost importance to those who were fortunate enough to be attending their classes.

Y. M. NOTES

The Y. M. C. A. held its meeting as usual in the Y. M. Gymnasium. The discussion of last meeting was carried over, and it was decided to start promoting a debate program so that the influence of the Y could be felt through the school.

Donald Butler, President of the Y. M. C. A., was at the meeting of the Student Council to discuss the regular meeting tomorrow night. During assembly hour in hall.

Cards Drop Another To Midland Cagers

Playing a hardfought game until the final whistle, Omaha University went down in glorious defeat before the battering of the Midland College team, 39 to 25. The game was a tossup until the final five minutes of play when Midland put it on ice.

The Midland team worked as one man with Krebs and Nordstrom as the pivots and the rest of the team backing them up. Nordstrom was in his usual form, shooting from all over the floor and sinking the larger share of them.

For eleven minutes of the first half the teams were neck and neck, but Midland put on a spurt and at half time was leading 16 to 11.

Johnny Rosenblatt was the outstanding star for Omaha, being here, there and everywhere to grab the ball and dribble in for short shots.

The play of the Barber brothers, playing at guards was also one of the features of the game, they being responsible for keeping the score down as low as it was. The final lead of 12 points makes the game seem one sided but this is far from so as these points were scored in the final five minutes in a last minute rally.

ORIGINAL OR NOT

Are you harboring a grudge? That is, do you think you can write stuff that in all justice ought to be printed? If so, come over to The Gateway office (Jacobs' Hall) and we'll see. It may be now or never with you!

Do you feel you are wasting time? Possibly you haven't observed a chance to get into an activity. If you wish to make a start in connection with The Gateway, come over and talk it over.

Through the Hoop

We wonder what it was or who it was that distracted Johnny Barber's thoughts from the Wayne trip. Most everyone knows by this time that our erstwhile captain went clear to Wayne without his suit. He had it already to go but by some trick of fate (or was it love) he left it all firmly tied up on the stairs in Jacob's hall.

The basketball team is stepping right up in the air this year, even hiring Fords to go clear to Wayne.

SPORTITORIAL

THE CLOSE—AND OPPORTUNITY

BETTER. That word which the grammar books prefer to call an adjective describes the the activity of the University's basketball team this season. Better in spite of the fact that student backing failed to keep up. Yet even that was better. BETTER long enough must certainly mean BEST eventually. The present road has all the earmarks of being the right one.

Right now opportunity knocks.

"It isn't worrying the Bobcats much." In such an off-hand way under the pictures of the Peru basketballers an Omaha newspaper describes their coming contest March 1st with the U. of O.—or us. In that picture the poses ain't just right. Some of the boys are leaning over after imaginary objects so as they look like they were all ready to fall down. Others look like they were dancing aesthetically as they reach upward. What do they call that picture we're trying to think of? We have it, "The Dance of the Nymphs."

Spring to us looks a long way off. Yet that photograph is its very impersonation. It's great to feel like that. But a basketball floor is no place for aesthetic thoughts.

The Peru team has had a defeatless season thus far, and they're not worrying much. What a decided pleasure and what excitement there would be for all if the Cards could knock off these worryless boys. The thing's been done a lot of times. And it might be done this time.

Not long ago while the autumn leaves still were boating about, a big, heavy Peru football team scored a crushing victory over our light one. Then weight largely won out. But strange as the fact is, weight in basketball doesn't mean a great deal, in fact it means hardly anything. There's a coreworn phrase which reads, "Revenge is sweet." This is no place for phrases, but such is our sentiments.

OUR BOOSTERS!

The advertisers of The Gateway are business men who are interested in the University of Omaha. They advertise in The Gateway in order that their products or business may be brought before the student's mind. In so doing they help to finance the publication of our paper. The least that we can do to show our appreciation is to patronize these advertisers and to mention The Gateway.

The more the students boost the University, the greater the progress. We have had an admirable example, this year, of what a little boosting can do. Now if the student body gets in back of our advertisers, our paper will grow. Who knows? Perhaps next year on the new campus a daily paper may be run!

This is a challenge to the student body to show the advertisers that the University of Omaha is growing and that it is vital to their business to run an ad in The Gateway.

APPRECIATION

There should be a lot of appreciation around here for the basketball team and for Mr. Hubka. It looks and is a lot of pleasure to play a game of basketball. But what we see, as has been remarked before, far from tells the story. To play on the team and with the team is to endure the hard grind of practice and training. To feel more a team as if what's the use. It doesn't mean not to get tired, it means to get tired and one feels playful, but to do it day after day, week after week, and for a matter of months. This is a hard, but it is a hard and student friends are running.

Girls' First Team Suffers First Loss

A free throw was the margin by which the Van Avery Sporting Goods Co. defeated the U. of O. first team Saturday night. The final score was 11 to 10. Up to the final quarter the Omaha U. sextet had been in the lead, but a field goal by the Van Avery's tied the score, and the free throw gave them the victory. It was the first defeat of the season for the first team.

The second team game with the Benson Christian Church saw the U. of O. girls defeated by the church team 14 to 2.

To-morrow night, the second team will play the Van Avery Sporting Goods Co., and Saturday night will find the two U. of O. teams opposing each other. The games are played at the K. C. gym.

Captain Barber was the pilot of the first one, while Coach Hubka wheeled the second one.

The gym has taken on a new outlook on life with its new coat of paint firmly dried on. The team was held back a little in practice the latter part of the week, but they really needed the rest that they received. One never knows how hard it is to use someone else's gym until the need of one is felt.

The Cardinal cagers showed the Midlandites up a little in their first encounter. The people as a whole thought that the Omaha team was dead for the rest of the season, but they seemed to take a new lease on life in the second half of the Midland game and came awfully close to bringing home the bacon.

Hubka must not think that the Omaha team is dead judging from the fact that he is going to enter his second team in a tournament in Council Bluffs while the first team will play in a tournament in Omaha.

The second team was supposed to practice on Wednesday afternoon in the absence of the first team, but they took things into their own hands, and all took French leave. Their coach went to Wayne with the first team so they all believed that they were justified in staying away. As yet none of them have put in their heads at the gym for separate practice.

We wonder what has become of all this smoke and fire concerning the proposed game between the winners of the inter-class basketball tournament and the faculty team. On two different times plans have been laid for the playing off of this game, but to date these plans have failed to materialize.

With the basketball season almost to a close the fellows will have to start looking forward to Spring football and the other numerous sports of spring. We wonder just how many fellows will be able to leave the femmes alone for a few hours so that they can heigh themselves away to the gridiron.

The young miss was filling out an application for a position in one of the city offices. One of the questions was: "What is the length of your residence in the city?" She answered thus: "About 140 feet." Another question was this: "Any physical defects?" She answered: "Only freckles."

A good natured traveler asked a Pullman porter the amount of his average tip. The porter replied that the average was one dollar. The man thereupon handed him a dollar bill. The negro caressed the bill affectionately and said, "Yassur, boss; but you is the first person what has come up to the average."

A traffic expert, speaking of traffic jams abroad, says the London chauffeurs enliven many an occasion with their wit and sarcasm. One London driver drew up when he saw a pedestrian directly in his way and very politely inquired:

"I say, sir, may I ask what are your plans?"

We could tell you some more jokes, but what's the use? You would laugh at them.

First Team Conquers Jewish Center Girls

In one of the hardest fought games played this season, the U. of O. first team defeated the Jewish Community Center girls, Tuesday, February, 19, by a score of 12 to 9.

Omaha U. scored first with a free throw by Jensen, but a field goal by the J. C. C. team put them in the lead. They kept the lead nearly all the first half. At one time the score was 5 to 5, but one of the J. C. C. girls was fouled and made good the shot, breaking the tie. The half ended with the score 6 to 5 in favor of the J. C. C. team.

Shortly after the opening of the second half, a field goal by Daubenhayer put the Omaha sextet ahead. A field goal by Jensen in the closing minutes gave the U. of O. girls a three point lead which could not be overcome.

The U. of O. lineup was:
Forwards: Jensen, Daubenhayer.
Centers: Merle Grace, Mildred Grace.

Guards: Shipman, Cathers.

VALUABLE SCHOLARSHIP OFFERED BY AIRCRAFT SCHOOL OF COLORADO

Colorado Springs, Colo.—Ten first aeronautical scholarship ever offered by an American aircraft concern has been established in the Daniel Guggenheim School of Aeronautics at New York University by J. Don Alexander, president of the Alexander Eaglerock company.

A 4 year scholarship in aeronautical engineering or business aeronautics will be awarded this year to the college student who shows the most practical imagination in aeronautics. The winner may choose between the scholarship and an Eaglerock airplane. Two hundred and eleven colleges are represented in the competition. A number of free flying courses and free flight manuals are offered.

Prof. Alexander Klemin, a consulting aeronautical engineer for both army and navy during the World War, now head of the Guggenheim school at New York, has become chairman of the Alexander Eaglerock committee on awards. Other members will be Dr. Jesse Morgan, dean of the Colorado School of Mines, Pres. J. Don Alexander, and Dr. D. B. Harmon of Colorado College.

New York University was chosen after a careful survey of aeronautical schools in American universities. The executive council and Chancellor E. E. Brown have given hearty approval of the scholarship plan of

Freshman Program Presented in Chapel

The Freshman Class sponsored the assembly of Feb. 25. Before one of the largest crowds that have attended the meetings this year, they offered a program that afforded that crowd some good entertainment according to spectators.

Miss Natalie Dale sang two numbers, "Happy Days and Lonely Nights" and "Where the Shy Little Violets Grow." Miss Helen Towl was the accompanist.

Joe Kubat presented an inimitable sketch, "The Old Homestead," wherein he carried all the parts that went to make up this melodrama. As an encore he offered a bit of portraying the troubles of an iceman.

A negro cook in one of the southern states answered the telephone one morning, and a cheerful voice inquired "What number is this?" The cook was in no mood for trifling questions and said with some asperity, "You-all ought to know. You done called it."

Happiness is a perfume you cannot pour on others without getting a few drops yourself.

Cards Lose Contest With Wayne Normal

The Omaha Cards were again defeated in a very erratic game with Wayne Normal Wednesday evening at Wayne. The score was 35 to 17.

The first half of the game was not so bad while Capt. Johnny Barber and DeLoss Thompson were in, but for some unknown reason they were not a log. With them out, the score, which had been tied, soon became lopsided in Wayne's favor.

Captain Kenneth Hunt of Wayne was playing his last game and was high point man with five field goals and two free throws. Ray and Langfeldt also were a big help to Wayne scoring three field goals apiece.

The lineups follows:
